BRITAIN'S GREAT HOME FLEET

"The true test of civilization is not the size of our cities, the magnitude of our crops, the immensity of our manufactures and commerce, but the kind of men that that civilization produces. If the civic and commercial organizations of this country have done no more than to educate their members to think along broad lines, induce them to change their individual viewpoint, make them realize their duty and responsibility and teach them to think in community rather than in individual terms, the money that has been expended and the work that has been done by these organizations has been well spent."—From the address of President Fiske at the second annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America in Washington, February 11-13, 1914.

DON'T QUIT THE CARNIVAL

The board of directors of the Mid-Pacific Carnival yesterday decided to defer any further Carnival plans until "such a time as the directors can determine whether, in view of the unsettled condition" they should proceed further. If the Carnival directors are waiting to get an expression of public opinion, they will soon get it—and it will be to the effect that Hawaii should go right ahead with the Carnival plans, even though some modification may be necessary.

The rest of Hawaii recognizes as well as the directors that the European war is regretted in this territory, but it is stretching sentiment a little too far to abolish Hawaii's annual Carnival because European nations are battling. And every practical reason calls for the carrying-out of the plans already well under way.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of people who have come to know that Hawaii has a carnival week every year will arrive here not knowing that the celebration has been postponed. If Hawaii gets the unenviable reputation of irregularity in carrying out its plans for this annual fête, it will lose the benefit of half of the expensive advertising done for the past eight or nine years.

There are 2500 stockholders in the Mid-Pacific Carnival, Ltd. What have they to say to the directors? The Star-Bulletin will be glad to give publicity to communications expressing their views.

Some of the proposed features of Carnival week will have to be dropped—get other features! Some of the plans will have to be modified—modify them! But don't quit now when the unique celebration next February is already advertised over the world. As was well put this morning, the resorts of Europe and northern Africa will be practically closed to the world's tide of tourist travel on account of the war, and Hawaii should stand ready to make a bid—and no half-hearted bid either—for that tremendous and lucrative trade.

It's the opportunity of a century if handled in a big and forceful way.

PALMER P. WOODS A CANDIDATE

Palmer P. Woods' terse announcement of his candidacy for delegate to Congress is one of the really big developments recently in territorial politics.

It means a definite breaking-away of a large number of influential, thoughtful, conservative Democrats from McCandlessism.

It means that Link and his hand-made platform of abuse against Governor Pinkham and evasion of the sugar tariff issue have so disgusted a large element of Democracy that for the sake of decency, backbone, and public welfare they will break long-standing party ties. Woods is a vote-getter; a consistent Democrat; a strong campaigner, a man who will get a lot of support because voters rely on him to play fair. He will draw heavily upon the support of Delegate Kuhio. He will command a big vote on the island of Hawaii and a good deal of support elsewhere.

And it so splits the opposition to Charles A. Rice that the Rice candidacy is doubled in potential strength.

WAR FOR TWENTY YEARS

Sir Edward Grey, Britain's secretary of state for foreign affairs, has told Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, that in his opinion a European war lasting 20 years may arise out of the present situation.

"At the urgent request of numerous friends, I have decided to become a candidate for," etc.

SUBMARINE F-3, ON HONOLULU STATION HOLDS NATIONAL RECORD

K. A. Charles Schroeder of the U. S. Navy, when properly marked with F3, 1913, it will be screwed onto the side of one of the submarines in the harbor and stay there until some other submarine makes a better record. Submarine F3 has won the trophy for two years. The men expect to gain other victories.

The British home fleet is believed by many military experts to be much more powerful than the main German fleet. The latter, recently gathered at Kiel and Wilhelmshaven, is, according to one observer, 33 per cent lighter than the great British armada.

The British first fleet is made up as follows: Commander in chief—Sir George A. Callaghan.

First battle squadron—Vice Admiral Sir Stanley Crowley; 8 battleships, 4 cruisers, 15 to 19 torpedo boat destroyers.

Second battle squadron—Vice Admiral Sir George Warrender; 8 battleships, 4 cruisers, 15 destroyers.

Third battle squadron—Rear Admiral Lewis Bailey; 8 battleships, 4 cruisers, 15 to 19 destroyers.

Fourth battle squadron—Vice Admiral Sir C. J. Bridges; 4 battleships, 1 cruiser, 15 destroyers.

Total fighting strength—29 battleships (including flagship), 13 armored cruisers, 60 to 79 destroyers.

Against this fleet the German high sea fleet can bring 13 dreadnoughts, 8 battleships and 6 armored cruisers. The number of destroyers is not known definitely.

On the British fleet there are 484 big guns, capable of hurling a broadside of 273,600 pounds.

On the German fleet there are 356 big guns, hurling a broadside of 170,378 pounds.

BLOOD BROTHERS

This brief dispatch from England emphasizes the alliance of blood and language that holds together American and Great Britain more strongly than any convention, agreement or treaty:

"SULGRAVE, England, July 25.—The first formal ceremony in honor of the one hundred years of peace between the English-speaking nations occurred here today, when Sulgrave Manor, the home of the family of George Washington, purchased for $12,500, subscribed in Great Britain, was handed over to the members of the Centenary committee as a gift to the American people."

If Germany's Asiatic fleet is really bottled up at Tsingtau, as reported yesterday, an important advantage has been gained by Great Britain, possibly with the help of Japan. Tsingtau, the German naval base, is fortified on both the land and the sea sides, while Weihaiwei, the British base, is not fortified. In case of serious hostilities on the Chinese coast, Hongkong will naturally be made the British naval base in the Far East. If Germany's naval vessels in these waters can be bottled up at the outset of the fight, the Kaiser's strength in the Orient will be all the more radically crippled because if free his ships might terrorize the unfortified British treaty ports.

Candidate Harry Murray wants to know what the Republican party thinks of Candidates Joe Cohen and Charley Hustace. There will be some thoughts on the subject let loose about primary-time.

The only news from Washington regarding the attempt of some of the Panahi street Democrats to "recall" Governor Pinkham is that the effort busted about as quietly and effectively as a bubble.

Italy's war in Tripoli, which scarcely caused a ripple outside southern Europe, cost Italy alone $260,000,000. The expenditure in a general European war is almost beyond calculation.

The senate has confirmed Judges Ashford and Edings, but it took an overtime session to do it. 'Tis certainly hard to jar loose these Hawaiian appointments.

Unless this war interest dies down pretty soon some of the perennial politicians are going to feel awfully neglected.

What has become of the man who thought the tango craze was going to bring the world to an end by June 1, 1914?

Incidentally, the Kaiser's yacht has been withdrawn from the Cowes regatta.

Sugar prices and stocks continue on a competitive climb.

of the glory, to say nothing of the men in the crew, who have proved themselves to be the right men in the right place at the right time.

Mrs. Kelley—"I hear that Jerry Dolan was nearly killed by too much study! And what was he studying?" Mrs. O'Bryan—"He was studying electricity and picked up a live wire."

STIRRING UP A HORNETS' NEST

HONOLULU.

In the midst of the ocean there lies eight small islands. Once known as the Sandwich, but now called Hawaii, Where the coconut trees and the tall palms are growing So gracefully waving their heads to the sky.

Oh! the beautiful shrubs, with their sweet scented perfume; The flowering Cereus which blooms in the night, And the tall flowering trees with their various blossoms A picture of beauty, a sight of delight.

Here the sugar cane grows and the pineapples flourish; The rice straw is waving its head in the breeze; And the Japanese and Chinese seem quite contented; Compared with most places, they live here in ease.

If you see the Aquarium you'll never forget it, Where fish of all colors and shapes can be seen; To describe is really quite out of the question Suffice it to say, they are red, white and green.

There's the Mauna Valley, a place well worth seeing, Where tram cars encircle in shade of the trees, And the Nuuanu Pali, Hawaii's place of story Where constantly blows a nice fresh cooling breeze.

In a nice motor car make a trip around this Island; You'll really be well pleased by what you will see; And return to this city, your heart filled with gladness, For such was the feeling it made upon me.

There's a most charming spot which is called Waialua, A bay on the northern side of this Isle, Where a beautiful house which is named Haleiwa, An ideal of comfort, your spare time to while.

If you feel so inclined, take a dip in the ocean Or watch the surf bathing at Waikiki beach Where the canoes and surfboards are brought into action; It's marvelous to see how the shore they can reach.

There's the Bishop Museum with all its collections; Of Hawaiian curios there's not a few; They remind one of dark days when bloodshed and murder Was thought by the natives the right thing to do.

And the tree Golden Shower in sunshine is glistening, Its long yellow clusters you gracefully see As they wave in the zephyrs which round this place circle And forms quite a picture, this beautiful tree.

Honolulu's a large park with lovely surroundings, The Bungalow houses all nestled around With their nicely kept gardens and heavy green foliage Lends charm to the flowers which around here abound.

I could keep writing on from today till tomorrow Describing the beauties of Honolulu Just destroy the mosquitoes, you'll then be perfection— If this place were mine, that's what I would do.

U. S. CONSUL TO AUCKLAND WILL BE VISITOR ON FRIDAY

Word has been received by R. H. Trent that J. Brittain, the appointee as U. S. consul-general at Auckland, N. Z., is going to pass through here in the steamer Niagara on his way to his post.

Mr. Brittain's home is in East Palestine, Ohio, and he is a cousin of Mrs. Henry Waterhouse of Honolulu.

Last year Hawaii imported merchandise from New Zealand to the amount of $18,657, while that domain purchased Hawaiian products only to the value of $542. It might therefore be very much worth while for local business men to take counsel with Mr. Brittain, apart from the duty of hospitality to an important federal official passing through.

READ OPINIONS OF LEADING CITIZENS PRINTED ON PAGE 8

Honolulu's leading citizens, at least a goodly majority of those who were interviewed by the Star-Bulletin today, are opposed to the action of the directors of the Mid-Pacific Carnival and express themselves in no uncertain terms. A perusal of the opinions of business men of this city, printed on page eight, is recommended to every reader of the Star-Bulletin.

UNCONSCIOUS HUMOR CULLED FROM EXAMINATION PAPERS

The 92 examination papers of applicants for teachers' certificates have just been passed upon by the committee appointed by the commissioners of public instruction. The papers are illuminated by occasional bright lights of unconscious humor. Some of the questions with their amusing answers are given below:

Q. Give the masculine form of nun.
A. A convict.
Q. Name one of the common garden tools.
A. A sword.
Q. What instrument governs the United States?
A. The compass.
Q. Give the masculine form of he got.
A. She went.
Q. How would you fumigate a schoolhouse?
A. I would throw creolin in the washroom, and on the dog.
Q. What should be introduced in vocational training?
A. Music.
Q. What is the value of a higher education?
A. It should help to develop the mental cavities.

Q. What are the changes of government since Kamehameha?
A. In Kamehameha's time there was feudalism, and people ran around without clothes or furniture.

Q. What are some of the evil effects of alcohol?
A. Need I quote Shakespeare: "What fools ye mortals be!"

Out of the 92 who took the examinations, which began Monday and continued until Wednesday, two got grammar grade certificates, 15 primary grade, 14 second permits and 12 first permits. A percentage of .48 passed. The names of those successful in the examinations are not given out. This is the best percentage ever made. It was stated in the superintendent of public instruction's office this morning.

SUGAR JUMPS ALMOST $3 IN SINGLE NIGHT

The prediction that sugar is going to reach some high spots on account of the state of war in Europe, is making good at a pace not expected. An advance of almost $3.00 per ton over night is the record to date. The quotation in the sugar market of the mainland last night was 4.25 cents per pound.
